

I am against over turning the telephone privacy act. If you do over turn the telephone privacy act and allow banks, and others to make unwanted calls to those of us that have signed up for the telephone privacy act then your in the wrong. Why should we have to tolerate those unwanted calls? Do you like being called while your eating dinner and having to listen to some monologue? Or making love to your spouse and having the phone ring just to break the mood? Or your taking a nice relaxing bath/shower just to have the phone ring and you run to grab the phone thinking it's important just to have some bank calling you about some bonus deal that they have going on? I know for a fact i don't! Please reconsider your position on this matter and how it would make Indiana residents feel to have their lives interupted by unwanted telephone calls.

sincerely,

Roxana
